

Nanobiosym® is an emerging global nano-biotech company in Cambridge, MA founded by an MIT/Harvard alum and is comprised of a world class team of Directors, Advisors and Strategic Partners. The company is commercializing cutting-edge nano-bio based technologies that address global healthcare needs in both developed and developing world markets. Nanobiosym is a truly exceptional company that has received widespread global recognition. This hypergrowth company allows for unique career opportunities with the potential for long-term career development opportunities.

Nanobiosym is currently looking for top notch candidates to build its world-class Business Development, Operations, and Global Strategy Team to help the Company scale up operations, launch its products into emerging global markets, as well as to help the Company plan its Global Strategy. Candidates will work closely with senior management and Business Advisory Board members to create & develop long term strategies for product development, business and strategy development. This is an excellent opportunity to be at the forefront of global business and strategy development in the context of cutting edge science and technology in a way that maximizes a global humanitarian impact.

Nanobiosym will select a few highly qualified folks to participate in the Nanobiosym Global Development Fellows Program.

Contact Beth Bressan for more details and to apply at BBressan@nanobiosym.com.